

Russian State released new drones

Drones leaked to black market.

Russian State has released a new series of drones that are designed to fit in across wilderness areas, parks, and in urban areas that have a high population of birds of prey.

The new drones, called Хищная птица (Translates to Predatory Birds) are larger drones with full sensor packages. <At 400m these things look just like a bird. Scary what the Russian State has come up with.> Former UCAS Soldier

These drones are mostly surveillance drones and have an enhanced sensor arey with a lv5 sensor package, but can be modified to have attack capabilities by removing the enhancement system leaving the drone with a standard lv3 sensor package.

<The lv5 sensor arey is amazing. It lets us see so much. I am loving these drones. A little big, but worth the money.> Drone Swarm Attack modifications are either 2 heavy pistols, 1 sniper rifle, or 1 light MP. There is no recoil compensation on this drone body making repeated firing more difficult. There is also no cargo capacity so the ammo for these weapons is limited to the magazine/belt for the weapon only.

<Losing the sensor enhancements makes it not worth modifying for the drone for weapons. Use other drones for the weapons if you need them.> Cy-eye

The skin of the drones can be easily changed to fit into any location. As of this printing, the Russian State has released 12 different skins for the drone. 6 of them for Europe/Asia and 6 for North/South America.

<Если вы копаете достаточно, на матрице можно найти рисунок, чтобы создать собственную шкуру, что делает этот беспилотник очень замаскированным. Слово на улицах Москвы говорит, что они работают над версией, которая может приземляться и садиться на площади в течение нескольких дней. > Russian Runner

Translation:

<If you dig enough, the pattern can be found on the matrix to create your own skin making this very camouflaged drone. Word on the streets in Moscow says that they are working on a version that can land and sit in an area for days at a time.> Russian Runner
